

W O R K S H O P

how

TO BE funny

HOW TO ADD HUMOR TO PROSE, ESSAYS AND BLOG POSTS

Author and sketch comedian Hillary Homzie will share her secrets in this hands-on workshop guaranteed to add levity to your writing

✧ Pump up the humor quotient in your writing ✧

Add texture to your writing, & boost your ability to sell your work
IT'S EASIER THAN YOU THINK.

In this workshop, we'll focus on ten essential techniques for writing comedically. We'll learn tricks of the trade used by professional stand-up comedians and apply it to our writing. I'll handout invaluable comedy writing prompts and exercises that will unleash your inner comic. In order to loosen everyone up, we'll also be doing some improv exercises. Expect to learn and understand comedy lingo and apply it to your work. Whether you write fiction, non-fiction or want to add chuckles to impress your friends, this workshop is for you.

About Hillary

Hillary has published six children's books with Simon & Schuster, and is the creative consultant for the Alien Clones From Outer Space animated television show, which is based on her chapter book series. She performed sketch comedy in New York, Off-Broadway as well downtown at Schecky's Big Fat Cantina with comics such as Sarah Silverman. Currently, she teaches in the MFA program for Children's Literature at Hollins University. The Los Angeles Times has called her writing workshops "bliss." to learn more about Hillary, go to www.hillaryhomzie.com